HEATED LOUNGERS

This heated lounge is designed for optimal comfort and relaxation. The lounge features an integrated heating mat that ensures even, pleasant heat distribution.

You can easily set the desired temperature and duration using the thermostat and timer. With a power rating of 2300W, the lounge can be plugged directly into a dedicated 230V circuit.

The heat from the lounge has a deeply relaxing effect: muscles relax, blood circulation is stimulated, and the body can fully recover. This makes the lounge ideal for use in wellness and spa environments.

The electronics and connections are easily accessible through a service hatch, and you can position the push button exactly as you wish.

Please note: the image shown depicts a tiled version. We deliver this model ready for tiling—that is, without tiles—so you can finish it entirely to your own style.

Whether you're looking for a complete steam cabin, a hammam, or just the steam technology itself, you'll find it all at Cleopatra. Wellness specialist since 1966.

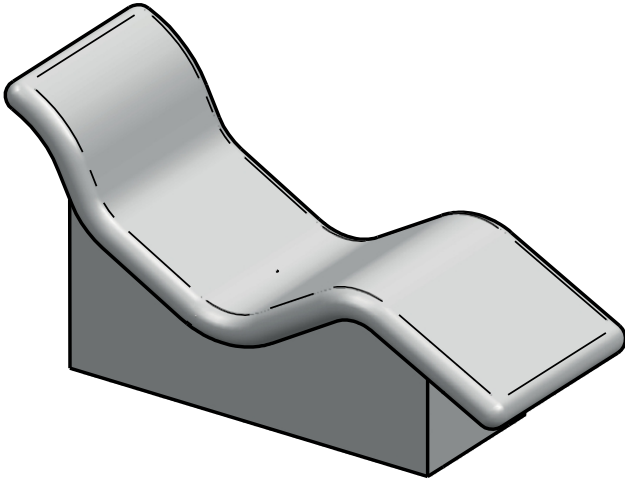

For many sauna-goers, heated tiled loungers are one of the most beloved places to unwind. After an intense sauna session or a refreshing cold shower, they offer just the right balance between comfort and recovery.

When you step out of the sauna, your body is warmed up and your pores are open. Your heart rate is elevated and your circulation is active. By taking a moment to sit on a heated stone lounge afterward, your body has the chance to cool down gradually. The gentle, even warmth of the tiles supports this process naturally, without feeling abrupt or uncomfortable.

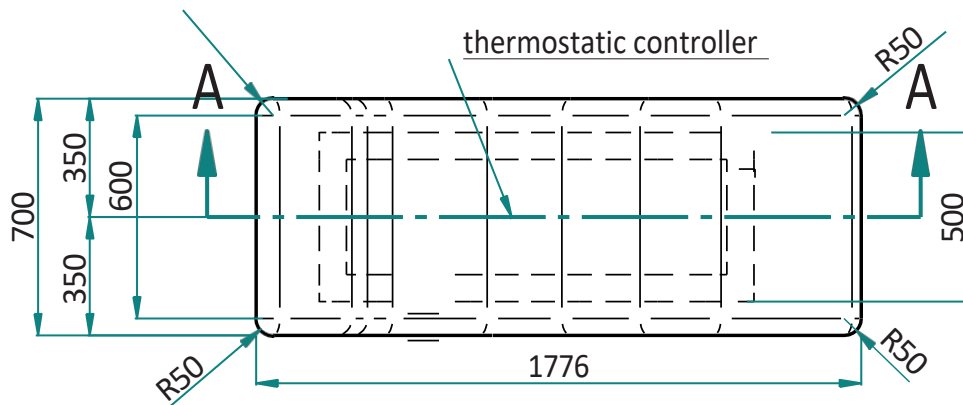

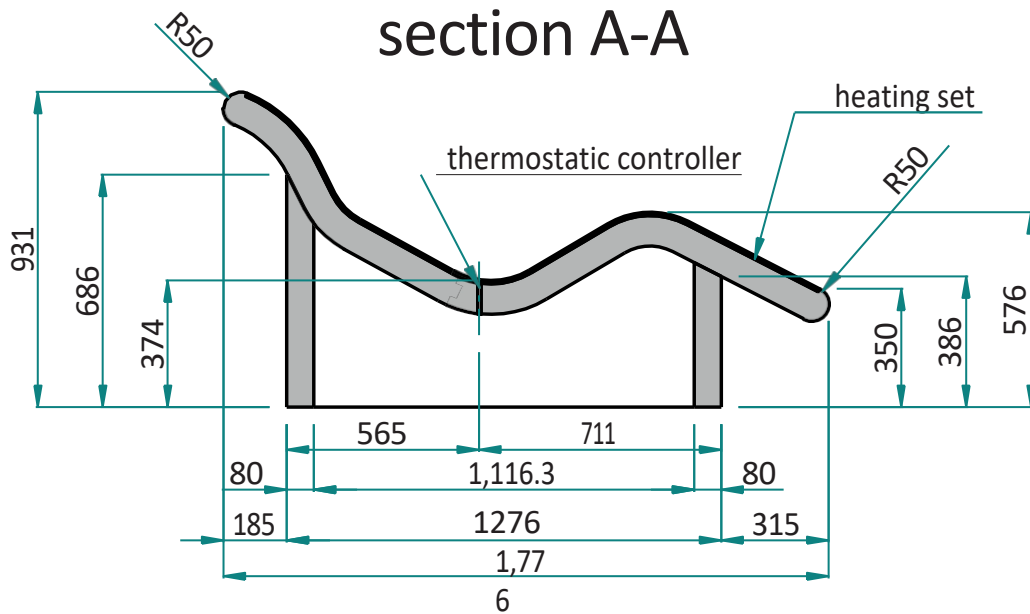

After a cold shower, the effect is the opposite, but just as pleasant. Your body has been stimulated by the cold and responds with increased blood flow. The warmth of the lounge helps your muscles relax and brings your body back into balance. The contrast between cold and warm also creates a pleasant sensation that many people find invigorating.

Comfort also plays a major role. The smooth, often ergonomically shaped loungers fully support your body. You can let your muscles relax, slow your breathing, and truly do nothing for a moment. This moment of rest aids not only physical recovery but also mental relaxation.

In short, heated tiled loungers are an essential part of the sauna experience. They prolong the feeling of well-being, support your body's recovery, and make the entire ritual more complete and enjoyable.

The loungers can be custom-made. During the manufacturing process, an electric heating mat is installed onto which tiles can be laid. The thermostat and electronics are placed underneath the lounger, making connection to a 230V circuit simple and safe. A service hatch—which can also be tiled—provides access to the thermostat and controller if necessary.

The heating in the lounger is turned on via a round, illuminated button that can be installed on the exterior in the location of your choice.
